課程概述：

The four English skills are equally emphasized in this intensive training course. The first half of this course concentrates on listening/speaking skills. Students are exposed to story-telling environment and are required to transcribe the scripts, write summaries, and retell the stories, based on the recorded audio files. The second half concentrates on reading/writing skills. Articles in science and technology, economics and finance, history and culture, and so on, are used, in order to broaden students' views of reading. Students are required to write summaries and reflections of these articles. In order to evaluate students' English ability, testing materials designed for proficiency tests will also be incorporated.
